Home Cooking

Raw and home-cooked diets can safely provide good nutrition for your dog as long as the ingredients are stored and handled safely, are balanced, and contain adequate amounts of the essential nutrients critical for a dog’s good health.

Nutrients NOT accounted for in this meal—micronutrients, trace minerals, and some vitamins. Check with your veterinarian for recommendations on feeding home-cooked diets.

mmm… carrots, I love carrots!